I support safely produced natural raw milk and raw milk products from organic farming methods. I grew up on a farm and thus consumed raw milk throughout my childhood. I realise that production standards need to be scrupulous: however, I am sure that with proper production processes in place, backed up with monitoring and review, combined with already rigorous organic certification, very high standards can be reached in order to offer the public the choice of consuming delicious raw milk and certain fantastic cheeses, yoghurt and butter.

Yours,

Paula Broom
