To Whom It May Concern,

I am very concerned about Genetically Modified foods infiltrating our market as, like many consumers, I believe they are a health risk. I am even more concerned that this proposal will mean that these foods are not clearly labelled as being GM, or as having GM ingredients. I believe that consumers have a right to know and choose whether the food they are purchasing has been genetically modified. If foods have been genetically modified, or have GM ingredients, they must be clearly labelled so that consumers can make an informed choice.
