To whom it may concern,

I am writing in support of the legalising of hemp products for human consumption These products such as the oil and the powdered or crushed seed is highly valuable as a complete source of amino acids and proteins as well as the complete chain of omega oils then there are the products made from the fibres of the plant such as cloth, cement, plastics and the list goes on and on.

Australia could lead the world in hemp production making vast profits and creating a new industry
Creating thousands of jobs and a superior "green image" around the world
Hemp conditions the soil it is grown in making it the perfect plant to rotate crops around
Its about time Australia grows up and starts taking responsibility for its actions regarding this amazing plant
NO it cant get you "HIGH", that's a old storyline that keeps getting brought up to stop it being grown
There are a lot of industries that wouldn't like hemp to be commercial for fear of losing money due to it becoming popular

Well a simple answer is to get behind it and enjoy the success that will follow
Australia has got the perfect climate for the hemp industry to flourish and lead the rest of the world
The recession wont touch Australia if the hemp industry was allowed to grow and develop
The amount of money it would generate would be staggering.
We could provide cheap housing costs, highly nutritional food products, "green friendly" plastics
Plus many more including fuel for own cars and we all know where that's heading
Thanks again for allowing me the space to put forward my views which are shared by thousands of other Australians
Please consider your own thoughts and views when it comes down to placing your votes on the legalising this fantastic plant for human consumption
Your own children and families future may depend on it

Kind Regards
Bryn Morgan
