To whom it concerns,

I am very, very concerned about Australians being left in the dark with genetically modified foods entering our retail stores with zero intelligent and informed labelling required. That is not a choice the public has been given and a sign of large companies arrogantly assuming there would be no side effects and consequences on their consumers which is not theirs to decide - please reconsider and allow Australians choice by informing us as to what we are actually buying, feeding to our children, and putting back into the planet.

Yours sincerely,
