Dear Sir/Madam

I'm very interested on the result for primary production and processing Raw milk and would like to receive further information.

I think that consumer should have at least a choice to purchase raw milk products. My opinion is that with recently advanced since/laboratory technologies are able to measuring and identifying harmful bacteria in the milk before selling it. It is obvious that pasteurise milk is a dead milk and have not as much benefits as a raw milk. I personally would prefer and if necessary pay more for an non pasteurised milk. Thank you
